U.S., RUSSIA AGREE ON RED CROSS INSPECTING BASES DISMANTLING

U.S. Planes Pour Arms Into India

CALCUTTA, India (UPI) — United States arms started pouring into India by air today and were immediately sped on their way toward forward bases for use against Communist Chinese invaders in the north.

The first C135 jet transport involved in a substantial relay of military hardware from stocks in West Germany landed at 9:15 a.m. at Dumdum Airport.

It was followed within 30 minutes by a second C135 bringing in 31 U.S. Air Force mechanics to help handle aircraft maintenance on this end of the airlift.

The arrival of the technicians and U.S. military aid officials re-awakened memories of the days of World War II when American planes flew missions from Dumdum and other Indian bases against the Japanese.

Indians Not Americans

The difference now is that the Indians, not Americans, will do the actual fighting — and against Communist China, not Japan.

Crates of light infantry weapons were pulled out of the planes almost as soon as they landed and placed immediately on waiting Indian army trucks for shipment to forward air bases by plane and fast light trains.

The fast-moving American jets were almost three hours ahead of schedule on their flight from Frankfurt, Germany, but the Indian army was ready for them.

Brig. Gen. K. D. Pachanada learned of the new schedule as he was flying toward Calcutta and radioed ahead with orders to have trucks and soldiers standing by.

Pachanada and an aide flew in with U.S. air attaches in a DC3 transport which also brought the number 2 man in the American Embassy, E. H. Timmons III.

Trained In Usage

Although officials did not want to specify particular items among the "light infantry equipment," it was understood India had asked that the first shipments contain automatic weapons, medium and heavy mortars and some communications equipment.

Indian officials said the equipment would not be sent to the battle areas immediately but would be moved to forward bases such as at Gauhati, Tezpur and Mismari in northeast India where troops could be trained in its use in a few days.

U.S. Army training manuals were supplied with the weapons and equipment so the training can be started immediately by Indian officers, according to U.S. Army Col. Preston Cannady, of Alexander City, Ala.

Cannady, a Pentagon consultant, is head of a four-man U.S. Army liaison team which arrived here Friday, to help coordinate the supply lift.

The dead were identified as Lois C. Lewis, 41; Mrs. Mildred Whited, 62; Catherine C. Williamson, 52; Mrs. C. Edith Miller, 67, and Mrs. Francis Slocum, 52, all teachers at Daniel Hill Elementary School in Akron, and Julia

Poodle Cause Of Divorce

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Penny Parker, 22, star on the television series "Margie," Friday divorced her husband, Edward D. Bright, 26, charging he was jealous of her French poodle.

Superior Judge Frederick Houser granted the interlocutory decree after Miss Parker testified her husband constantly supervised her and "didn't want to share me with him (the poodle)."

Washington Waits Word From Havana

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Official sources said today Premier Fidel Castro must agree quickly to independent verification of the departure of Russian offensive weapons from Cuba or face indefinite air-sea surveillance and arms blockade by the United States.

This in general was the core of administration policy as the government awaited new word from Havana, where Castro was conferring with Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan.

President Kennedy made it clear in a hastily arranged television report to the country Friday night that the United States was convinced Russian missile installation was a grave threat.

Regional Meeting

CD Urges Stepped Up Shelter Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State officials should move as quickly as possible to provide more public shelters in the event of an attack, civil defense chief Stuart L. Pittman urged Friday.

At the first of eight regional meetings aimed at pushing the federal shelter program, Pittman said the most-asked question during the Cuban crisis was: "What is the address of the nearest shelter?"

He urged officials from seven states and the District of Columbia to take advantage of public receptiveness by stepping up their shelter programs, particularly during the next three months.

Pittman, assistant defense secretary for civil defense, said the public is much more willing to prepare for an attack now than it was during flareups over Berlin when there was "a great deal of conflicting advice and opinion."

Attending the meeting were civil defense leaders, including three governors, from Civil Defense Region 2 which includes Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Kentucky and Ohio.

The regional meetings are aimed at rushing implementation of a six-point federal program,

Mrs. Roosevelt Still 'Serious'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's condition remains serious and unchanged, her family announced Friday.

The former First Lady's daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Halsted, said that Mrs. Roosevelt was maintaining a state of comfort reached three days ago following several weeks of "ups and downs" accompanied by intermittent fever.

Castro Gives Greeting To Mikoyan

HAVANA (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro personally welcomed top Soviet troubleshooter Anastas Mikoyan to Havana last night in airport ceremonies that included bouquets of flowers but no speeches.

The two men shook hands, embraced and drove away together, presumably to begin discussions on the five demands Castro has made a condition for acceding to any U.S.-Soviet accord on the Cuban crisis. They were accompanied by Castro's brother, Raul, chief of Cuba's armed forces.

In a nationwide radio-television speech last Thursday, Castro admitted "misunderstandings" with the Soviet Union. But he said "differences" between the two countries would be settled in private by both governments acting as equals.

The bearded premier called for U.S. withdrawal from the Guantanamo Naval Base, a halt to U.S. overflights of Cuba, lifting of the American naval blockade and economic sanctions, an end to subversive activities and a halt to "pirate" gunboat raids from U.S. territory.

He recognized Russia's right to dismantle its own missile bases, but firmly rejected all forms of international control to supervise the operation.

Cuban newspapers played down Mikoyan's visit. But they demanded "peace with dignity" and picked up the theme that the talks would be "as equals."

In New York, John J. McCloy, head of a three-man U.S. coordinating committee, said after talking to Mikoyan that the Russian intended to "placate" Castro. But before leaving for Havana, Mikoyan chided American news media for what he called "groundless guesses and fantasies about the purpose of my visit to Cuba."

"I am going there for a friendly exchange of views with our close friend Premier Fidel Castro, on questions of the international situation," he said.

Search In

Boro Murder

Police investigating the murder of Carol Ann Dougherty continued their search for missing parolee Wayne Roach today but they did not say whether he is a prime suspect.

Bristol police chief Vincent Faragali said: "We just want to question him."

No charge has been brought against the 19-year-old youth, but it is the first time in the case that a photograph and description have been issued.

Uses Alias

The youth occasionally uses the alias of Jerry Conover. He is five feet three inches tall, weighs between 115 and 120 pounds, has brown hair and brown eyes.

While police have been searching for Roach, they have also been checking other persons.

Two more suspects were interviewed by police officers yesterday, bringing the total number quizzed and cleared to 34. Many have been persons known to have records of sex crimes who have been interviewed as a matter of routine.

Carol, a nine-year old school girl, was raped and strangled in St. Mark's Church, Bristol on Oct. 22. She lived at 68 Manor Circle, Landreth Manor.

Five Local Football Games Postponed

All five high school football games scheduled for today involving local teams were postponed.

The Neshaminy-Tennent game will be played Monday night at 7:30 o'clock at Neshaminy.

Tonight's Bensalem at Morrisville game has been postponed

The United States and Russia have agreed to Red Cross inspections as a means to ease the Cuban crisis. Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan is in Havana to persuade Cuban Premier Fidel Castro to accept the plan.

Thant had no scheduled meetings with representatives of the United States, Russia or Cuba, but a U.N. spokesman said the secretary general would be occupied with the Red Cross inspection plan and other paper work that has piled up during his occupation with Cuba.

The spokesman said Thant understood that it would take about 10 days before the missiles and their equipment would be shipped out of Cuba.

The spokesman could not give details of Thant's planned Red Cross participation.

It was not definite whether teams of the international organization, which is Swiss-predominated, would be permitted to observe the removal operation on the site of the bases or at Cuban ports, or whether their inspection would be confined to vessels on the high seas, replacing the U.S. naval blockade.

President Kennedy said in a radio-television report Friday night that Soviet missile bases in Cuba were being destroyed. But he continued the U.S. blockade and air surveillance pending a satisfactory means of verifying the bases' removal.

The President said the International Red Cross might serve as a future agency for international inspection of Cuba-bound cargoes to make sure there is no return of offensive Soviet weapons to Cuba.

Latin American sources said Thant reported reliably that the dismantling of the bases were completed Thursday—when U.S. reconnaissance planes took aerial pictures on which the President reported Friday night.

Good Evening!

C. L. Batting for G. G. G.

No day for football.

Weatherman says heavy rain and strong northeast winds. Good day to join the armchair brigade and watch the Middles romp over the Irish of Notre Dame. No day to slop through the mud.

Quite a show in Bristol Township.

Woodrow Wilson and Delhaas High Schools put on a dazzler for close to 5,000 fans. Both teams deserved to win. But Wilson had just a bit more and came from behind to win a thriller.

Wilson Principal Frank Furgele gave the township athletic field a touch of the Rose Bowl with his Homecoming Queen motorcade at halftime. Somebody's going to have a tough job to pick the queen. All six girls were charming indeed.

Good news from the President.

Mr. Kennedy sees peace being restored in the Caribbean with Soviet missile bases in Cuba being destroyed. But he's not taking any chances. U.S. blockade and air surveillance of Cuba still continues.

Only three more days.

Much at stake Election Day in Bucks County and Pennsylvania. Should be quite a race right down the line, right down to the final balloting. Whichever side you're on, BE SURE TO VOTE TUESDAY.

Remember the penny postcard?

Well there's something new for '63. The humble, but handy one-time penny postcard (now three cents) is about to come out of its old-fashioned shell. Come Jan. 7 it will take its place in a busy color-conscious world at a new price of four cents.

Don't mind the Post Office Department getting fancy with the colors, but let's slow down on raising the prices every so often.

Give your fair share!

Bucks County's United Fund drive moving along in great fashion and Lower Bucks setting the pace with 80 per cent of its goal already turned in. Let's everyone get behind the final push and make this year the biggest yet.

Wet roads are slippery. Easy on the driving.

Go to church tomorrow.

Dilworth, Scranton Start Final Drive

William W. Scranton, aspiring to the first Republican governor of Pennsylvania in eight years, appeals to voters in the industrialized communities in the Pittsburgh area today in the waning hours of the campaign.

A 14-hour tour will take Scranton to McKees Rocks, Neville Island, Coraopolis, Carnegie, Heidelberg, Oakmont, Clairton, Brentwood and Kennedy Twp.

Scranton, who has been stepping up his campaign as the Tuesday election draws near, will meet the press at the Hilton Hotel at 1:30 p.m.

Rep. James E. Van Zandt, Scranton's congressional colleague and running mate, also hit the campaign trail in Western Pennsylvania in a bid to unseat U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark.

Causes Shock

Scranton drew an expression of "shock" from Philadelphia Mayor James H. J. Tate Friday night when he pledged that if elected governor he would dispatch state police into eastern counties where he charged local enforcement authorities are lax.

He included Philadelphia, Berks and Schuylkill counties in the areas where he said state police are "obligated" to step in where there is a "breakdown in law and order" that local officials are unable to cope with.

The gubernatorial hopeful said in Orwigsville, Schuylkill County, at state police would cooperate with local police who should be given "time and opportunity to correct the situation."

Tate praised Philadelphia's success against crime and said he was "shocked" by Scranton's charge which he described as "a slap in the face and an insult to every policeman in Philadelphia."

Charges Postal Opposition

Van Zandt charged Clark Friday with opposing a provision in the Senate postal bill "stopping the free distribution of Communist propaganda" through the U.S. mails.

He charged Clark "spent six hours in the Senate fighting against a measure drawn up to halt '21 million pieces of Communist propaganda mail from coming in to the United States.'"

Hess Replies To Teachers

The Bristol Township Teachers Association's attack on the Bristol Township School Board drew sharp rebuttal today from at least one board member.

John F. Hess leveled his feelings at the association president, Harold Tesno, who yesterday charged the school board with "interfering with the administrators" and having a "complete disregard for teachers."

Hess said he felt the remarks made by Tesno were "not complimentary to either the superintendent (Robert Martin) or the school board."

The BTTA, whose membership includes 420 of the township's 456 teachers, had criticized the board for the manner in which it handled the case involving a Lafayette School male teacher accused of writing an immoral letter to a 13-year-old boy. The teacher was suspended after an executive meeting of the board last Monday night, pending outcome of the investigation being conducted by the board and Bristol Township police.

Cites Action

"True, a teacher was temporarily suspended," Hess said today, "but only after the nine members of our board read the letter this teacher admitted writing to a junior high school student."

Hess claims that the board has "tried to protect both the teacher and the child. Hindsight is always better than foresight, but I will continue to protect these individuals until the joint investigation by the police, Mr. Popkin (Solicitor Edwin) and Mr. Martin is complete."

Hess warned that if Tesno "persists in inciting the teachers and residents into a realm of hysteria," he may regret "the wrong he is doing to the teacher, the boy and the school district."

Safe Blown Up, $600 Stolen

Thieves broke into Penn Drugs, at 813 W. Trenton Ave., Morrisville, sometime early this morning, blew up a safe and took $600, it was learned today.

The owner of the store, Robert White, said that an estimated $2,000 damage was caused by the explosion.

Patrolman Russell Bainbridge of the Falls Township Police made the investigation.

Police said that the thieves gained entrance by forcing the front door of the establishment. It was reported the thieves went directly to the safe, and didn't touch any other part of the store.

Police are continuing the investigation today.

Curtin Sees Victory By 20,000 Votes

Willard S. Curtin, incumbent Congressman for the 8th District stated today that on the eve of the election he had had an inquiry concerning his estimate of 20,000 votes as his margin of victory on Tuesday.

"I have been asked, since I won by 26,000 votes in 1960, why I felt confident that most of this majority would be maintained against the vigorous campaign conducted by my opponent," Curtin said. "I believe it is two-fold—(1) the people are abundantly satisfied with the manner in which I have represented them during the last six years, and (2) have come to question the tactics and methods used by my Democrat opponent."

Record On View

Curtin continued: "My record is for all to view, in black and white, through my votes, which have been recorded, and by the constancy of the positions I have taken on the various issues now before the country."

"My six years of experience have placed me in good stead in the Congress, and the seniority that I have attained, as manifested by my position on the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Commission, have put me in a position of importance in the House of Representatives. This is shown by my recent appointment to represent the entire 174 Republican members of the House at the White House Conference on Narcotics," he said.

"An over-riding factor which has impressed my constituency during each of my six years in Congress as a method of informing me of the opinions and beliefs of the people I represent. The opinions of the residents of Bucks and Lehigh Counties count with me—they serve as a guide—post for my actions in Congress," Curtin stated.

"Shifts Position"

"On the other hand, my opponent, through his actions, has made the task of this campaign in the latter stages much easier for me. He has been known to shift his position in terms of the particular group which he is addressing, so that on consecutive nights he can praise the philosophy of Barry Goldwater, and then switch, before a different group, and be a devotee of the entire Kennedy program."

At Clairton, the former Philadelphia mayor ripped a statement attributed to his opponent William W. Scranton, that he could erase unemployment in four years.

"Anyone who makes a damn fool statement like that has no right to be believed by anyone," Dilworth said.

Thieves Get $1,250 In 2 Burglaries

Thieves netted approximately $1,250 in two burglaries on Second Street Pike in Southampton yesterday.

The Pike Rollarena and the Pike Bowling Lanes were both entered through windows, at sometime after the two establishments closed at approximately 1 a.m. Friday. The thefts were discovered when employees opened the doors to clean up shortly after 10 a.m.

Fingerprints Found

Chief Charles W. Gray of the Upper Southampton Township Police said that some fingerprints were found, but nothing had been turned up of a very helpful nature in the way of clues.

Sergeants Frank Frassetto and Herbert Anderson are investigating the thefts. According to their reports, the bowling lanes were entered through a broken window in the men's washroom.

The thieves jimmied desk drawers and filing cabinets to open them, not knowing that they were already unlocked and did not contain money.

The Rollarena was entered by knocking out four glass brick blocks on the Turnpike side of the firm. "Evidently," said Gray, "they just wanted money. No skates, no property, no bowling balls, were touched, as far as we can tell now."

Castro Needs Russian Help To Keep Alive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cuba's economy has gone steadily downward under Fidel Castro, and only massive Soviet assistance could reverse the trend.

Indications are, in fact, that Russia would have to cut back its economic commitments elsewhere in order to provide the amount and quality of assistance Cuba needs.

Analysts here draw these conclusions from the latest information available on the Kremlin's efforts to help the Cuban premier, both in the economic and military fields.

It appears likely that Russia will step up its economic assistance. But this might serve only to shield Castro from the worst repercussions of mismanagement.

Information indicates that consumption, production, investment and foreign trade all are substantially below pre-Castro levels—and likely to continue downward.

Sugar Cane Drops

This year's sugar cane harvest, Cuba's economic backbone, is believed to have been the smallest in six years. Per capita food consumption in calories is estimated to have declined more than 15 per cent in the last two years.

Housing construction has slumped. Inflation has brought what appears to be a program designed to bring about a reduction of wages of perhaps 30 per cent, over the long haul.

Livestock has been improvidently slaughtered. The number of cattle is estimated to have decreased by 14 per cent from January 1959 to January, 1961, the information showed.

Acts of sabotage, absenteeism and work slowdowns have increased.

The embargo on U.S. trade with Cuba, except in medicines and foods, has caused trouble for industry. Plants have been closed because of raw materials shortages. Parts are taken from one piece of equipment to make another piece work.

The petroleum and nickel industries, however, have been given high priority and are maintained on a fairly high level.

Foreign trade in 1961 was about 25 per cent lower than the average for 1957-58, the two years preceding Castro. Imports declined more than exports in 1961, the largest cuts being in consumer goods.

Since early 1960 the Communist bloc has given Cuba credits totaling $460 million for economic development and apparently about $50 million for current supplies of food, raw materials and fuel. Russia gave two thirds of the development credits and apparently all the commodity aid.
